

American Studies in Black and White: Selected Essays, 1949-1989

The twelve essays presented here are a representative sample of the pioneering work Sydney Kaplan has produced in the fields of American and black studies. Selected from over fifty published pieces, the essays reflect Kaplans lifelong passion to demonstrate the centrality of the African-American experience to our national experience, to show that an understanding of black history is indispensable to an understanding of American history. He takes particular pride in his works that point out the presence and significance of African Americans who too often are rendered invisible or out of focus in national portraits. The emphasis throughout the essays is on Kaplans attempts to give a full and fair description of what he aptly calls the American chiaroscuro: blacks and whites in the nations images of itself in history, literature, and art.
