

Sketches of the Irish Highlands: Descriptive, Social, and Religious; With Special Reference to Irish Missions in West Connaught Since 1840 (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Sketches of the Irish Highlands: Descriptive, Social, and Religious; With Special Reference to Irish Missions in West Connaught Since 1840 Rev. and Dear Sir, In soliciting for these pages the honor of your name, one reason that has influenced me is your well-known sympathy with suffering humanity of every class and clime; of which the system of Ragged Schools founded by you will remain an imperishable monument. Another reason - very unequal in importance, I admit, but still interesting to an Irishman - is, that in adopting the Total Abstinence principle many years ago, you were not ashamed to ascribe the change to the example of a poor Irish peasant. When many others - your inferiors in talent and worth - find nothing in the character of that people but subjects for ridicule or censure, not taking into account their many disadvantages, such a compliment on your part has still further endeared you to one who rejoices in being of that race, and whose lifetime has been mainly spent in endeavouring - however unworthily - to promote their spiritual welfare. That the Lord may long spare your useful life, is the sincere prayer of, Rev. and Dear Sir, Yours truly, The Author.
